PREFACE

The Book of Adam completes the genealogies of the Bible that "the seed" may know the covenants of the Lord intend blessings for them and those nations which they rule.

BASKIN

Lilly Belle Bowen-Baskin, grad, State Teachers College, Valley City, N. D., m. Clayton L. Baskin (Correction to record on page 10).

BIGOD

Isabel Bigod was the daughter of Hugh Bigod and the sister of Sir Ralph Bigod.—See "Magna Charta," 1942, by John S. Wurts. (Dr. David Starr Jordan and Sarah Louise Kimball in "Your Family Tree," 1929, cited her as the daughter of Sir Ralph Bigod.)

COEL

Prince Coel was not the same person as King Cole—See "Magna Charta," 1942, by John S. Wurts. (Dr. Anderson regarded them as one person.)

HOWARD

Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham, has been cited as a descendant of Adam which is not a matter of controversy.

Lady Mary Howard has been cited as the daughter of Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham, and the wife of Sir William Howard. (See "Scot's of Scott's Hall," by Emma Siggins White, K. C. 1920; "138 Generations from Adam" by George A. Jewett, F.I.A.G. in "The Christian Worker"; and "Charlemagne Pedigree" by James F. Morton 1933.)

Lady Mary Howard was not mentioned as the daughter of Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham, in "The House of Howard," by G. Brenan and E. F. Statham, 1908 and Neal F. Mears, A.M., declares that the descent of the Earl's property offers no evidence that he had such daughter.

KING

Richard McLaury King is now a Major (Addition to record on page 10 citing him as a 1941 War Veteran).

SCOTT

Henry Scott has been cited as a descendant of Adam which is not a matter of controversy.

Ursula Scott, who married Richard Kimball, was the daughter of Henry Scott who married Martha Whatlock and the descent of Ursula Scott from Adam is not a matter of controversy.
